

BIO

Dr. Luciana Iorio has a law degree, an MBA, and specializations in diplomatic relations and international policies, in public governance, and in sustainable development. Working at the Ministry of Sustainable Infrastructures and Sustainable Mobility of Italy, she is the Chair of the Global Forum for Road Traffic Safety at United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE) . She has also served as the founding chair of the UN Road Safety Fund. She is a member of the International Advisory Committee of the College of Traffic Management, IRTE, in Delhi, India. She is member of the Jury of the Global Road Safety Film Festival . In addition, she runs a monthly editorial for the technical magazine Le Strade. She is regularly engaged with University front-runners (Genoa , Birmingham, Delft, Belgrade), in shaping the mobility of the future and challenges automation would bring to physical and digital infrastructure as well as societal acceptance.